Another examination to determine the actual mental condition of the prisoner was made this aftermon by Dr. C. F. McDonald, the alienist, who was brought here for the defense by the Erie County Bar Association, and Dr. Arthur W. Hurd, superintendent of the Buffalo State Hospital. The alienists both declined to discuss the case after the examination.
Dist.-Atty. Penney and his entire staff spent all of Sunday at the City. Hall preparing for the trial of Czofgosz, which will begin before Justice White in Department Three of the Supreme Court tomorrow morning.
Immediately after the death of the President, one of the staff of physicians in attendance on the President expressed the opinion that the builts may have been poisoned. Dist.-Atty. Penney ordered careful and thorough examinations made by Dr. Herbert Hill, the city chemist, who made a chemical examination of the buillets and the chambers and barrels of the revolver, and Dr. Herman G. his work also revealed the absence of any poison.

The District Attorney has been informed to that effect, although the formal report has not been submitted. Authorities on this question state that the two examinations form a complete test, and that the slightest trace of poison would have been revealed.

Drs. McDonald and Hurd, after an interview with Dist.-Atty. Penney this evening, were escorted to Cangoor's cell and locked up with the prisoner for half an hour. They returned to the City Hall and held another conference with the District Attorney. Fifteen minutes later Dr. James W. Putnam, a local alienist, appeared and joined the conference.

The conference between the doctors, Dist. Atty. Penney and Assistant District Attorney Frederick Hallock, who will assist in the prosecution, lasted until late this evening. At its close Dr. McDonald said to an Associated Press representative: "I cannot say a word incomming and to an Associated Fress representative: "I cannot say a word upon this subject until I have reported my definite conclusions to the counsel for the defense. I cannot tell whether or not I will be a witness."

Preparations have been made to accommodate over fifty newspaper men, and the courtroom is so small that it and the courtroom is so small that it is feared that not more than 100 spectators can secure admission. When the seats have been filled, the doors will be closed and the City Hall cleared of all except those having business with the city or county departments. Police lines will be established on the streets on both sides of the City Hall, and no one will be passed except upon the presentation of passes to the courtroom or good business excuses.

In the afternoon, the services were for school children, and all the spakers endeavored to impress on the young people the significance of the assassination. Senator Dolliver of lowa, the principal speaker at the evening meeting, said, in part:

Senator William E. Mason, who addressed the afternoon meeting, condemned the assassination of President McKinley as the most cruel, disholical murder ever recorded. He said that he believed the red flag, of anarohy would never senain be permitted to float under the same sky with the Stare and Stripes.

BAN AGAINST THE JOURNAL.

The Sheet Cannot Be Sold in North Plainfield, N.J.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) NORTH PLAINFIELD (N. J.) Sept. 22 .- [Exclusive Dispatch.] By order of Mayor Newton B. Smalley, it is against the law to hawk about the streets of North Plainfield copies of the New York Journal. Chief of Police Campbell of that borough has orders to arrest any person who Plainfield is in Somerset County, N. J., and has a population of 6000, at least half of whom are in business in New York. The place hes a borough government, with a Council of six members, a corporation attorney and an executive officer with the title of Mayor. This Council meets once a month. Between meet ings, the Mayor is authorized to act upon his own responsibility for the good of the bormay consider emergency

Before taking action against the Journal, Mayor Smalley consulted Corporation Counsel Charles C. Reed and got his orinion that the hawking of the Journal was undoubt edly an offense provided against by several sections of the local ordinances. In the opinion of Reed, a person selling the Journal may be arrested on any one or all of the following charges: Peddling without a license, disturbing he peace, carrying concealed weapons, and carrying inflammable materialf

Upon the strength of this ruling, Mayor Smalley gave his order to the chief of the local police. This was two weeks ago. Within an hour after the order went into effect, a news dealer from New York landed in North Plainfield and began to yell that he had Journals for sale. As it was the first case, Chief Campbell told the offender about the law and gave him a chance to get out of town. The first train was due to leave in eight minutes. The man with the Journals took the hint and the train. There hasn't been a Journal howled about in North Plainfield since.

"The next offender," said Mayor Smalley last night, "will be arrested. The punishment is a fine of $7, or ten days in jail, or both. The Journal has not seen fit to test the power of the local authorities to protect the people from annoyance. If more offenders come, they will be arrested on the spot. Our local jail will hold twelve prisoners, and we have the privilege of sending any overflow prisoners to the County Jail at Somerville, which will hold one hundred. Boers Not Crushed By Mere Manifestoes.

Last Week a Dismal One for "Merry England"-Kitchener's Latest.

In ordinary times, such a deplorable disaster as the loss of the Cobra would have excused much more talk; but the wreck of that costly new war vessel and the loss of sixty lives was only one of the tragic incidents of the week. The worst news comes from the seat of war, where the Boers' answer to the proclamation of Lord Kitchener is prompt and potent. It is strange that this new proof of the continued efficiency of the Boers in the field seems to surprise the multitude. The Boer victories in two successive days, with the loss of valuable lives and many prisoners taken, coincident with the serious labor riot in Grimsby, which has been fermenting for a long time, and the general dread of anarchy now in evidence, to say nothing of persistent rumors of sale of more British ships to Americans, inspire remarks in opposition papers on the "regrettable incidents" in South Africa that are both pointed and severe, while the Conservative Mail continues its righteous criticisms, and the staunchest government organs can find little excuse for the authors of the failures.

There is no further talk now about droves of Boers coming in with flags of truce to surrender, and there is no reasonable doubt that the war, such as it is, will be prolonged another year, unless the government takes steps not hitherto planned.

Only a few weeks ago, there was sangulae talk of the removal of 70,000 troops from Bouth Africa, with the resultant lifting of a corresponding amount of the financial burden from the country. Then the optimists of Lombard street did not believe another large government loan would be required before the end of the year. Now it seems likely that before many weeks a demand for more funds will be heard.

One thing is sure, and that is that Englishmen, whatever their party, be-lieve that the time is past for econ-omizing in the prosecution of the war, and that nothing more is likely to be done "on the cheap."

LONDON, Sept. 22.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The War Office has received the following dispatch from Lord Kitchener. dated Pretoria, September 21:

"Kritzinger, while endeavoring to force a passage of the Orange River, near Herschel, at 7 o'clock Friday morning, rushed the camp of a party of Lovatt's scouts. He failed to cross the river, but the scouts lost heavily.
Lieut'-Col, Murray and Capt. Murray,

"Under cover of darkness, the 30-rs

Lord Kitchener also reports that the British captured by the Boers in the ambush near Scheeper's Nek, September 17, have been released, and that the British casualties in the recent Viakfontein engagement, when the Boers captured a company of mounted infantry and two guns, were one officer and five men killed, twenty-three wounded and six officers and 109 men taken prisoners. He announced that these prisoners have since been released.

He further reports the capture of two commandoes—one consisting of fifty-five men under Commandant Koch, who were taken, together with their entire transport, west of Adenburg, and the other, consisting of fifty-four men, including J. HEARS LITTLE THAT'S GOOD.

IBY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS-P.M.1

LONDON. Sept. 22.—[By Atlantic Cable.] In London, the speech of President Loubet, when proposing the health of the Csar and Czarina at the luncheon which followed the review at Betheny Saturday, is in no way regarded as an indication of the intention on the part of the Russian Emperor to interfere in South African affairs. Even in Paris, reflection seemed to have convinced many papers that there was little in the words of President Loubet, and that beyond a confirmation of the Franco-Russian alliance, little has been achieved by the visit of the Russian sovereigns.

Lord Kitchener's latest dispatches, although they contain good news as well as bad, have done little to reassure the public concerning the state of affairs. The loss of Liqut.-Col. Murray, a brother of Lord Mansfield, is keenly felt. There is little doubt that further details will show that it was a serious affair.

Kitchener announces that the Buffalo River is flooded, and that there is no change in the situation in Natal. The latter fact shows that Gen. Lyttleton has not yet succeeded in interfering with the movements of Commandant-General Botha. P. J. Bot'a, whose capture Lord Kitchener reports, is a brother of the Boer commandant. According to the latest advices from Cape Colony, the situation there is serious, owing to sympathy and aid which the Dutch are giving the Boer commandoes. POLICE GET CLEWS TO ASSASSIN'S PLOT.

LEVELAND (O.) Sept. 22.-Investigations made today by Police Detective Schmunk reveal the startling possibility that a plot to assassinate President McKinley was laid a year or more ago, before he was elected for his second term, and that it may have been laid in Orangetown, Pa., where the Czolgosz family lived. A remittance made to the assassin by his brother, Waldeck Czolgosz, about a month ago, led to the investigation, that may have an important bearing on the case.

From the first, the Buffalo police and the secret agents of the Federal government have been strong in the belief that there was a plot. One of the strong elements in their belief has assassin concealed the hand in which he held his said, would not have been able to tie it himself.

The fact that Czolgosz had money impelled the detectives to try to learn whence he got it. Today his brother Waldeck confessed to having sent it to Leon under the name of Frank Snyder, at West Seneca, N. Y. Detective Schmunk today learned from neighboring farmers that the Czolgosz boys, Leon and Waldeck, have been readers of socialist papers for several years. John D. Knox, an aged farmer who lives in the vicinity of the former Czolgosz farm, said today:

dent, and Waldeck, used to come to my house and talk to me about their socialist papers. They brought their papers to me, and tried to get me to read them.

"Once, when they were here during the last Presidential campaign, they got to talking about President McKinley, and one of them said: 'If I he is elected he will be shot before he serves out his term,' and went on, 'I'd serve John D. Rockefeller the same way if I got a chance.' They talked violence all the time, and I was glad when they went out of the neighborhood.

"Almost every night, there was a crowd from the city at their house. They used to come out to the farm from the electric road, so that we could not see them, as we could have had they come by the road. The back of the farm extends to the railroad, and the visitors used to go back and forth that way instead of by way of the road. Sometimes there would be quite a crowd of them." It is said that Leon's father, sister and brothers are going to Buffalo shortly, and the police believe when they confront Leon that he will break down and reveal all that is now a mystery in relation to the shooting of the President.

GHASTLY SCENES AT WRECKING OF VIENNA EXPRESS.

Everything Inflammable Within a Area of a Quarter of a Square Mile Destroyed-Nearly Thirty-two People Burned to Death.

BUCHAREST. Sept. 22.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The collision yesterday at Palota between the Vienna express and the petroleum train appears, in the light of the latest events, to have been a most terrible affair. In a few seconds the whole area of the collision became a huge lake of burning petroleum. Trees and everything inflammable within an area of a quarter of a square mile were destroyed.

There were some ghastly scenes. A girl was burned to death in sight of both her parents, who escaped. M. Dinu, a Roumanian millionaire, got his foot jammed in the wreckage and begged one of the train guards to sever the foot with an ax, promising him a large reward if he would do so. Before the guard could help him he sank back into the flames and was burned to death.

Schwartz, the conductor, who was similarly jammed, clung so desperately to the man who tried to extricate him that his would-be rescuer had to be dragged away just as Schwarts perished in the flames. Most of the thirtytwo who were killed were burned to death. BUCHAREST, Sept. 22 .- [By Atlanti

STATION AGENT AT HOBART HELD UP.

Two Men Beat Him, Robbed Him of His Cash and Then Tried to Take His Life.

H. LYNDEN, joint station agent for the Sait Lake and Santa Fé railroads at Hobart station, four miles southeast of Los Angeles, was held up. robbed, beaten and narrowly escaped death at the hands of two highwaymen, last evening.

With his face and clothes besmeared with blood, as a result of the assault on him, he came to Los Angeles early this morning in a highly-excited frame of mind and made a report of the robot office, and left his bed to listen.

J. R. Mullen, who has been assisting Lynden at Hobart for several days, was asieep in a room adjoining the ticket office, when the robbery occurred. He heard a commotion in the office, and left his bed to listen. Divining the condition of affairs, he placed his pocketbook, containing $3, under the mattress of his bed, and leaving the room by an outside door peered through the office window to ascertain what was going on. He saw the robbers going through the pockets of Lynden.

Mullen was unarmed, but knowing that a train was deep in a few minhe would probably now be a corpse, lying on the tracks of the Santa Fe railroad half a mile from Hebart. der the influence of iliquor at the time of the robbery, beat Lynden with the butt of a revolver, knocked him down, and were on the point of taking his life, when he made his escape.

Lynden was sitting in the ticket office at Hobart last evening, waiting for the train from San Pedro to Los Angeles on the Salt Lake railroad due at Hobart at 10:18 o'clock. Shortly after 10 o'clock two young men entered the office and asked for tickets for Los Angeles. As Lynden turned to look at them, he was confronted with a large revolver in the hand of the older of the two men.

Instinctively, Lynden drew back, when the man who held the revolver said: HANDS UP! ASSISTANCE REFUSED.

When he saw the two robbers marching Lynden ddwn the track he rushed to a neighboring house and called for assistance. The wife of the occupant of the place refused to permit her husband to leave the house, so Mullen went to another place, and there had a like experience, although at the second place the man offeres to loan him a shotgun loaded with a single cartridge, Mullen refused the offer and returned to the station, just in time to witness the return of Lynden.

After Lynden had sent his message and secured assistance, the two men boarded a Samts Fé freight train and came to Los Angeles to report the affair. They arrived here at 12:15 o'clock this morning.

"Put up your hands and shut your eyes—quick."
Lynden obeyed, and the men commenced rifling his pockets. They had just begun when the operator opened his eyes. At the same instant he was dealt a heavy blow on the lower lip with the butt of the revolver. The blow almost stunned him, and he again According to the description of Lynden, the man who carried the revolver is the older of the two robbers. He is apparently about 22 years old, wears a black derby hat, and a black suit of clothes, weighs 140 pounds, is 5 feet x inches tail, smooth-faced, and of dark complexion.

RELIEVED OF CASH.

The robbers relieved his pockets of 16.50, and then asked him if there was a money drawer in the station. Lynden denied that there was, whereupon, one of the men sale: "You are a llar," and at the same time struck him a blow in the face. Then, at the point of the revolver, they compelled him to open, the Santa Fé moncy drawer, in which there was $4.60, which they took. Satisfied that they had secured all the money in the office, they ordered Lynden out of the depot and marched him up the Santa Fé tracks toward Los Angeles. While he walked at a rapid rate along the ties, they followed behind, all the time keeping their victim covered with the revolver.

As soon as the Los Angeles dispatcher of the Sait Lake Railway learned of the robbery he made a report to the Police Station, and to Superintendent E. M. Jessup of the Sait Lake Railway.

Patrolmen were furnished with a description of the robbers late last night, and told to apprehend them, if possible. WANTED TO KILL HIM.

was delivered a stunning blow on the right cheek.

He had walked but a few feet further when he was struck on the back of the bead and prostrated. He fell to the ground, but hastily regained his feet and hurried on, all the time closely pursued by the two robbers, one of whom held the revolver close to the back of his head.

A second time the threat to kill Lynden was repeated. It was hardly out of the mouth of one of the robbers, when the man carrying the revolver stumbled over a tie and fell to the track. His companion hastened to assist him, and Lynden, taking advantage of the opportunity, jumped to one side, turned around and passing the two robbers started to run back to Hobart. By this time he was half a mile from the station.

MADE HIS ESCAPE.

For a short distance, the two men pursued him, shouting for Lynden to stop, but he continued to run until he reached the station. Once there, he entered the telegraph office and wired to the Salt Lake Rallway dispatcher at Los Angeles of the affair. Then he went to a house in the vicinity of the station, called for help' and told of the robbery.

A hired man, armed with a shot gun and plenty of cartridges accompanied him back to the station and

The newcomer said he was Frederick James of San Francisco. He suggested that they cross the river and view the city from Fort Lee Heights, from which he said the finest view of New York could be obtained. They crossed the ferry and went to Fort Lee; then walked along the creat of the hills to Palliande Park. When on the path leading back to the trolley line, they came upon an old man who wore a wide-brimued hat, and had every outward appearance of being what he said he was, a wealthy southerner. Then the piot thickened, but Green was as emerald as his name. The old man said he had been swindled, and offered to show how he had been tricked. He had four cards, with backs alike, but three of them were blank on the face, and one had a picture. He said he had tried to pick out the picture card, but lost.

Green thought the game looked too casy, and he got into it to the extent of 330 and his English split-second watch. Then he said that was all he had, and a man wearing a big badge, who was waiting for the signal, burst through the trees, shouting: "What, gambling on the highways? That's three years."

"Leg it," called James, and set the example. Green followed him, but was soon lost in the woods, and it took him a long time to get out, and he could find no trace of James. Then he scarched for the old, man, with the same result.

Leslie Rogers, who has been absent from Garvansa for five years, is down from Santa Barbara, visiting friends here. Mr. Rogers has spent two years in Alaska since he left Garvansa.

There is great need of some one coming into Garvansa to erect good modern cottages for rent. Not a day passes by in which there are not applications made to people in business here for vacant houses. Many new-comers from the East are anxious to reside in these picturesque highlands, but cannot find houses. One business man, who resides here, states that he could fill fity good cottages in Garvansa Methodist Church yesterday, At the morning service, Rev. T. B. The popularity of the picturesque drive through Elysian Park and across Angelina Heights is shown by the fact that on one Sunday afternoon 250 carriages and buggies were counted passing over this drive.

Demon of Unrest.

Rev. C. J. K. Jones preached yesterday morning in the Church of the Unity on "Fault Finding." He said:
"Finding fault with one's conditions, with one's environment, with the status of society, with the industrial, economic and political order of the day is one of the destructive and growing evils of modern times. It is not only a source of great personal disquietude and unhappiness, but also of profound social, economic and political unrest. Fault finding has become a pronounced fad in the ordinary conversation of our day. To find fault with most that exists in social order and procedure, and to proclaim it in mild or gross forms of anarchistic speech has become an unfortunate fact in all enlightened countries. In this habit we witness an abuse of the freedom of speech which has degenerated into the license of a demorralising and destructive propaganda of sentiments, whose ultimate tendency and results can be, and avowedly are, only revolutionary. As a matter of fact, this habit is anarchy, whose fult is chaos. We are daily witnesses of its immoral and unethical nature, as we read from day to day of the doings of strikers and the practical spirit of those who control them.

"Whether in the iros mills or on the San Francisco water-front it is the same story of brutality and crime that it was when Charles Reade wrote 'Put Yourself in Elis Place.' Within two weeks this spirit has culminated in a deed of dastardly murder that has shocked the whole enlightened world.

"It was the ripened development of fault finding, as publicly expressed and excess that the process of the control of th

Recognitions in Heaven.

Rev. Philip James Ward preached yesterday at the Central Baptist Church, corner of Flower and Picos Streets, from Ephesians iii, li: "The whole family in heaven and in earth."

Mr. Ward said in part: "The family of the redeemed will soon all meet in the heavenly home, but the idea of a common home without mutual recognition is unthinkable. The hereaved should not wish their loved ones back among earth's mingfed Joys and sorrows, but should look forward with the contract of the family in heaven and made everlasting. XIV.—THE WITCHERY OF SUGGES

Now easy is a bush supposed a bear."

A Midsummer Night's Dream.

UCH is the subtle power of violent emotion, or joy or dread over our sane perception of the world! All men are ready to acknowledge this power, but few realize the extent to which it controls us. In our calmer moments we are entirely confident—too confident—of our ability to distinguish solid material objects of the world from the "airy nothings" of the mind. In truth, it is customary to look upon a confusion of things of sense and of imagination as one of the symptoms of a disordered brain. When seeing With the Mind.

It is really remarkable that we do not oftener confuse real objects with fabrications of the mind. Think for a moment of the appearance of an absent friend whom you know very well. If your mind's eye be at all clear, if you think easily in visual terms, the figure of your friend will stand before you with great distinctness. What, now, is the difference between the image and the actual perception of the person? There are the hair and eyes, the customary attire, the gestures, perhaps, and the friend's voice, some characteristic attitude, a situation, possibly, in which the individual might easily figure. All these you can get in the "mental image" of your friend and yet know that you are remembering or imagining, and not really seeing. What is the difference? Well, in the first place your image lacks the vividness that first-hand vision possesses; it is weak, faded and thin. It doen't "strike in" as a perception does. And it is also evanescent. You can't stare at it. If you try to examine it critically it vanishes. It does not wait for you to turn your eyes norder to get a new view; it disappears in thin sir while you watch. In the third place, the image is less complex than the real object. Scan your friend's face in thought. Can you see the exact curve of the lip, the texture of the skin, the pupil of the eye? The chances are that you cannot. A process of elimination has been at SEEING WITH THE MIND.

when it is loosened, people die when the heart stops. And the other world has its "laws" as well. The denousment must be spun from the body of the plot, imaginary folk must converse in a common, intelligible tongue, and the heroine must feel the impulse of "genuine" emotion. All goes well so long as the two worlds are kept distinct; so long as a person realizes that he is in the one or the other. But the worlds approach each other at many points. The "Land of the Glittering Plain" lies near the abode of mortal man. We always come back to earth after we dream, and we dream even while we toil at the prosiest task.

SUPPLIED BY "SUGGESTION." SUPPLIED BY "SUGGESTION."

It is on the boundaries of sense and imagery that the witchery of suggestion is to be found. Imagination is, by its insidious encroachments, continually pushing into the realms of perception. As a matter of fact, when we are simply looking at an object, we "see" more with our brains than with our eyes. As you are reading this page, for example, your eyes go skipping across the column, stopping here and there to take in a word, but utterly neglecting to catch even a glimpse of a great many letters and some whole words. This is the reason that we so easily overlook typographical errors. Even when the proofreader goes over the page for the express purpose of eliminating mistakes of the compositor he misses many small inaccura-be surprised at the large number little mistakes—Inversion of letters, omissions, substitution of wrong words—that come to light even at the third or fourth reading. It is, naturally, a great blessing that we can read in this way; that we can "catch at" a meaning and fill it in from our minds instead of from the page. You see we are dealing from our earliest years with words set in groups. Sentences with words set in groups. Sentences are continually pouring into our ears are continually pouring into our ears are continually our light in the brain gets furrowed it.

bush my thorn bush, and this downy dog."

But these are not the only figures that fancy descries in the full disk of the moon. There is the fleet-footed horse in the upper right-hand qusdrant: the Roman profile drawn at the extreme left, with the face turned outward and the eyes gazing into infinite-space; the Gibson face, looking straight out from the center of the moon, and, most perfect of all, the "girl in the moon."

This appeared on the bulletin board as the jockeys who had ridden the first heat of the running race wheeled their horses, and riding before the judge's stand, waved their hands in signal.

The blatant country band began to blare. The race track was a mass of jostling, swearing, sweating, betting men. Gold clinked against silver, bilis were waved in air, everywhere rose cries of "2 to 1" or "5 to 10 on Roanoke."

stead of from the page. You see we are dealing from our earliest years with words set in groups. Sentences are continually pouring into our earliest years with words set in groups. Sentences are continually pouring into our ears. As a result, the brain gets furrowed in all directions, and the instant an old furrow is touched the corresponding group of ideas comes to mind again. How many words do you suppose you actually hear in a half-hour's lecture or sermon? A very much smaller number than the speaker uses.

Let the speaker make a quotation in a tongue with which you are not very familiar and immediately you lean forward, hold your breath and part your lips; you must hear every syllable if you are to understand, but if you hear him say. "The thirt—colon—in the—strug—for liber—" you don't ask for more; you know without the least effort that he has spoken of "the thirteen colonies in their struggle for liberty." The chances are that you would affirm that you heard every syllable of the sentence. Indeed, you did "hear" all the syllables, though only two-thirds of them struck your ear. And think of what you get from an indifferent phonograph! If you have ever played the amusing game of "gossip" and have noticed the changes that a whispered sentence undergoes as it passes around from mouth to mouth you will not need to be convinced that the mind stands ready to complete experience by crowding in its own inventions.

Really, we shouldn't get on at all if the mind didn't stand ready to prompt the senses and to fill in the gaps in their incoherent reports. We have always a great mass of past experiences, in the form of cerebral tendencies, and we draw on this mass every moment of our waking life. Yes, we use it in our dreams, too, weaving new and bisarre patterns with the old threads. Nearly always we come to a new experience primed, prepared to take it in, to digest and assimilate it.

etimes we make curious mis turns the coming experience quite out of its normal course. This is true not only of the parlor game to which I have just referred, but also of the were made; and, secondly, because the meteors would not have moved in the way these "silver balls" were said to move. Anyone who has watched the entoptic phenomenon in question will at once recognize the descriptions given. If you will turn to the account of the retinal circulation (paper I) you will note how favorable were the conditions under which the spurious "leonids" were seen; strong attention, a bright, cloudy sky (there was a mist at the time) and fixation on a broad, homogeneous, visual field. The point of interest is the suggestion. The talk of meteors was in the air—everyone was looking for them—and the air felt like snow. We have aiready described the circulation illusion as "a brilliant, whirling cloud of snow." Who wouldn't see leonids under such conditions. The suggestion, "meteors," to turn the attention to the sky, and the further suggestion, "snow," to rivet the attention to the "floating silver balls!" It is a very good illustration of the way in which we see what we look for, whether the object exists or not. The circumstance also gives a hint of the enormous difficulty of observing without bias. One of the very hardest lessons man has to learn is to know how to criticise his own observations; to see a thing without obscuring it with the darkened glass of his own prejudice.

ILLUSIONS OF THE SKIES.

These suggestions that get into the air and filter into the very center of our being are among the most potent factors in illusion and deception. Do you remember the great furors some years ago over the appearance of airships? From one end of the country to the other flashed telegraphic reports of these mysterious monsters of the blue. No one knows, I suppose, how the infection started. Sometimes it was a toy balloon that caused the excitement, sometimes a star and sometimes, evidently, the thing was a pure "faction of the brain." It is not impossible to mistake a star for a lighted object moving through the heavens, for (as is well known among psychologists) a solitary luminous point steadily fixated in a dark field seems to swing backward and forward. The "airship" suggestion would be quite sufficient to do the rest.

The sky seems to be a fruitful place illusions of the skies.

The sky seems to be a fruitful place for illusions of suggestion. There is a strong element of mystery and of poetry about the heavens that encourages suggestion. The fascination of picking out from the clouds monstrous

Just then from the bulletin board flashes the ominous words: "All bets declared off."

COLLEGE OF LAW.

At a meeting of the board of trus-tees of the Los Angeles College of Law Saturday, George L. Sanders, who, at the last meeting, was chosen president of the college, was also selected as dean of the faculty. Quarters have been secured at No. 218 South Broadway, and will be in readiness for the opening next week.

The selection of a faculty is nearly completed.

The necessity of stricter requirements for admission to the bar in this State was discussed and an effort will be made at the next session of the Legislature to secure enactments along this line.

Following out this policy, after next year, the course in the school will be changed from two to three years.

More offers to take members of the school as office students have been received from attorneys of the city than there will be students in the school. Classes have been co arranged that students can get this practical office training as well as the regular college work. cries of "2 to 1" or "5 to 10 on Reanoke."

Buckskin Jones, a saloon-keeper, seemed to be the only taker for the losing side. He had staked a small fortune on Coteau Queen and bet against Roanoke freely.

The Jockeys were leading their mounts to and fro, wetting the animals mouths and rubbing their limbs.

Many hands were stretched forth to pat the winning Roanoke, a black, Kentucky-bred mare, whose slender, refined beauty in some subtle way suggested the Gibson pictures of American women. She seemed proudly conscious of her triumph; her nostrils dilated and the pupils of her eyes widened.

Bestde Roanoke stood her lockey.

The Pusy Turkish Custombouse.

The customhouse at Constantinopie is a most wonderful place for creating difficulties and surprises. A lady the other day was sending to Switserland a large doll, dressed most carefully in Turkish costume, but it was stopped at the customs by superior orders, as it was not considered fitting that a doll should be dressed as a Turkish lady. Another person received from Persia some lovely specimens of Persian carpet of very great value. Unfortunately, the maker, Habiboilah, had woven his name into the fabric. This was at once noticed, and the owner informed that his carpets must immediately be reexported, as the last syllables of the name were almost the same as "Allah," and it was impossible to allow the name of God on a carpet which would be trodden on.—[Londen Telegraph.

A grim-faced, thin-lipped man stood quietly beside Roanoke, passing his flanks and slender limbs.

"What'll you take for her?" he asked in an undertone.

"Not for sale," replied Harcourt.

"I'll give you $2000 if she wins," murmured the grim man without moving a muscle of his face.

ITIS INFLUENCE STILL LIVES.

In his brilliant address at the Pan-American Exposition on Thursday, September 5, the day before his assassination. President McKinley spoke in glowing terms of the good to be accomplished by the exposition, and in the course of his remarks said: "The good work will go ou. It cannot be stopped. here who preach the gospel of enry and harred and class prejudice, whether from platform, preas or pulpit, must realize that they too share the responsibility for creating evil forces, of which Czolgosz's bullet was merely a natural consequence. There are inequalities and evils in our social system that sorely need rectifying; but the sooner the people learn that many of the socialistic and anarchistic remedies are worse than the discusse, the better for the country. Our people as a whole are sound in their political and social aspirations; yet material prosperity has made us too easy-going in regard to public affairs, and toleration in dealing with dangerous classes has gone to the extreme; sterner methods are required in the treatment of disorder, and public opinion needs a vigorous awakening to the folly of tolerating the doctrines of diseased imaginations.

advice of the high-priced landscape gardener, John C. Olmstead, to beautify the grounds around their factory. Then they had the interior walls and the machinery painted a light buff color. They introduced palms into the factory. Mr. Olmstead was again hired to visit the houses of the employes and give them suggestions regarding improvements. The National Cash Register Company of Dayton, O., is well known as one of the model manufacturing establishments of the world. A few months ago a full description of this remarkable institution was published in The Times, together with the story of the unreasonable and wicked strike that was worked up by a few miserable agitators against this concern. A mere list of the clubs, schools and societies connected with the company fills a page of this pamphiet. They are thirty-four in number and include such a wide range of activity as a kindergarten, library, cooking classes, boys' gardens, a penny bank, literary club, improvement association, band and crohastra. A business that started in 1889, in one room in a small two-story house in the suburbs of Pittsburgh, has increased to such dimensions in 1900 that its buildings in Pittsburgh cover ten and one-half acres of floor space; the product of 15,000 acres of vegetable farms constitutes a part of the raw material; there are salting houses in different States and branch factories, with their own glass plant. Such an Aladdin-like increase is due such an Aladdin-like increase is due to more than the mere payment of wages, and in the judgment of the writer of this pamphlet the kindly care and the fair treatment of the

At the entrance are beautiful stained-glass windows, while the grounds surrounding the factory are adorned with flowers. The factories are faced with flowers. The factories are faced with glazed brick, so that they can be washed down by the hose. There are bath rooms, a hospital and a dining-room, decorated with pictures and plants, where the firm supplies free cooks, crockery, milk and sugar. Surely, a perusal of such facts as these must prove a severe rebuke to those loud-mouthed agitators who are always attempting to make working-men believe that the capitalistic class men believe that the capitalistic class is their natural enemy. It is sad to note that in two cases where almost everything possible has been done by the employers for their people the good work seems to have been so little appreciated that these model establishments were harassed by strikes. The cases referred to were those of the Fullman Company and of the National Cash Register Company. However, to believe that a majority of American workingmen and women do not appreciate "The experiement of taking men from the interior States for service in the navy has, in the main, been a successful one," said the naval officer who is on leave of duty, "although it is exasperating work breaking them in. Many of them see sait water for the first time when they enter the service, and their greenness concerning everything pertaining to their duties makes them the butt of all the others, and although we try to protect them all we can, the old men often take advantage of their ignorance to amuse themselves at the expense of the new men.

"Not long ago I was stationed on a receiving ship. One day during my watch one of the new men came shuffing up, and without going through the formality of saluting, blurted out: "I can't do it alone, mister!"

During the president all the time, although there was no ostentation of police presence and protection. Cranks are always likely to appear about executive mansions, and precautions cannot be too complete to cope with them, whenever an emergency may arise.

"For example, while McKinley was Governor, I told the colored doorkeeper that if I ever asked him to admit 'my friend' he must go at once for the captain of the Capitol police. That was a good precaution, as you will see, on morning while I was sitting back of a screen writing private letters, I cheard a heavy voice and stepped from behind my screen, just as the clerk mear the door, who was reading a paper, said that the Governor was in, and that the stranger could see him. "Stepping before the stranger, a powerful fellow he was, I closed the door and informed him that the Governor was busy for a few moments and could not see him immediately. He was angry, and intimated that he would go in any way, but I smiled at him pleasantly, and soothingly asked him to alt down and read the morning paper until the Governor could find time to see him. Finally he compiled with my request, and as he sat down I heard something in his coat pocket trike the chair. I quickly turned my face away so that he could not catch my eye to see whether or not I heard that sound. Very quietly I called the colored man, and told him to admit 'my friend.' The big crank before me never looked up. Inside of five minutes he was in the grasp of two police somen. It required also the aid of two men to control him while he was a forty-two-caliber revolver. He was a forty-two-caliber from an asylum in a Western State, and was returned to that institution.

"The teamsters' strike was declared on July 21. The following week there was a decided failing off in clearings, whowing that business was really im-peded and that many transactions were left uncompleted which would in in 1900, when we were all exclaiming that we were never so prosperous. The following week the clearings returned to the normal amount and have since shown only the ordinary fluctuations, and have invariably been larger than in the corresponding week of last year. This does not show that the strike is doing no harm. It is doing harm, but the mischief is measured by the difference between what we are doing and what we might do. Except to the strikers themselves it represents no actual loss, but only less profit than was expected. Bankers state that had it not been for the strike the volume of clearings would have been phenomenal for the last two months, and employers say that if they could be assured of proper protection the public would never know that there was a strike in progress. All there is of it is that non-union men are getting the wages instead of union men, but the union men would get their share if they would. would get their share if they would ask for it. They will ask for it whenever a vote is taken in the unions by ballot."

Cost of Municipal Government.

The importance of the prize to be striven for at the elections in our great municipalities may be understood from the statement that the city budget for the coming year in New York City will amount to about $130,000,000. This represents an increase of about $12,000,000, as compared with the estimates for the current year. As a matter of fact, says Bradstreet's, increases are the rule in all the departments, there being one notable exception, in the District Attorney's office. The mere fact of the total expense of government being increased would not of itself call for remark, insemuch as the popula-

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 22.—(Exciusive Dispatch.) San Francisco swatted the Oakland team, both in the morning and afternoon today. In the morning game at Oakland, Johnson was batted all over the field, which notted but two runs. Schmidt with more the field what work in the first race in the greatest regatta very held in Southern California wasters, was brought of before thousands of enthusiastic sportsmen at Terminal Island yesterday afternoon. The yacht Myth, owned and handled by Joe Fallows, won first prize; the Oaborn, H. C. Dodge, second, and the Helene, Charles Chick, third. The Osborn made the best actual time over the course—2h. 16m. 22s. It was in every respect a glorious inaugural of glorious sport.

GLORIOUS INAUGURAL OF YACHT RACING.

Starting point well strung out, but stop watches marked the time to a fraction of a second, and the difference in position counted nothing.

The wind was fair and they went away at a lively clin. Every skipper had sailed the course many times, and had what he considered the best route all figured out. The breeze blew straight inshore, and after passing between the crowded wharf and the judges' boat the ficet scattered. One would tack in toward shore and another activities that each contestant rounded it fairly. Then the return trip to the bell buoy was made, and then to the starting and finishing point off the Terminal pier.

MANY GOOD HORSES ARE NOW AT THE RACE TRACK.

Races Begin Next Saturday With the Derby as the Big Attraction of the Day — Large Consignment of Racers Expected This Week.

The stables at the race track are fast filling up for the thirteen days' rating that commences next Saturday. There are about one hundred horses stabled now, and this week will see double that number arrive from the north. Active work is being done every day by the various trainers, and they promise that every animal will be in good condition when his race comes.

Prominentamong the horses in the first tiers of stalls is the stable in charge of Trainer Bunch, which includes Thomas R., Our Boy's Sister, Nora McKinney, and those two good ones belonging to the Chinese Consul-General in San Francisco, named Solo and China Maid, In the adjoining stall is the celebrated green pacer Sir Albert S., in charge of Jack Groom, and beyond is J. W. Kelly's Ansella.

Mrs. Severance has Direct Heir, Bet Madison and Glendover, and asar these are the trotter Briny K., and the pacer Chief, in charge of J. A. Cody.

The others in the line are too numerous to classify in detail, but are as follows: Walter Maben's Richmond Chief, Doctor Mac, Grace McKay, Una K. and Italia, and the runners Crutch and Miss Vera; Baldwin's Santa Anita Star; O. T. Bush's Bendina; Charles Farrar's El Diablo; Charley White-

5 to 4. The admirers of Columbia are ready to concede that the new Shamrock is nine minutes faster than the old challenger, but they say the Columbia beat Shamrock I 10 minutes and a seconds in the second race, and is considered to be at least five minutes faster now than she was two years ago. The Columbia is in perfect trim, and her crew is conceded the best that ever sailed an American yacht.

Capt. Barr knows every current of the course, and is undoubtedly a master yacht fockey who can sail all around the English skipper. The belief is growing that for fear of Shamrock II is groundless, and that the cup will await a faster challenger than Lipton's racer before going back to where it came from fifty years ago.

Twenty-eight of the fastest "pros" in the country were entered, and as prizes were offered at different points in the race, the pace was terrific from the start. Frank E. CONDITIONS OF THE RACE.
The yachts entered are all less than two years old, and all were built in the vicinity of Terminal Island. The boats with their racing lengths and owners, who sailed them, are as follows: Myth (30:11,) Joseph Fellows:
Caborn (21:11,) H. A. Dodge: Helene
(21:11,) Charles Chick; Marie (25:03,) C.
H. Wedgewood; Eagle (23:11,) S. Bartholomew, and I. McCollum; Esperanza owned by N. Bonfilio, and the Charles W. Foster, owned by Frits Overton, were withdrawn from the contests.

The winner of the series will be awarded a championship pennant and 350, in each race the winner receives 320, second 310, and third 35. The cash prizes are donated by the Sait Lake road. Time allowances are allowed for differences in measurement in accordance with the table adopted by the Corinthian Yacht Club of San Francisco.

Corinthian Tacht Club of San Francisco.

The course is a triangular one, ten and three-quarters miles in length. The start was made from the judges' launch 100 yards off the Terminal pier: thence around a stake boat just off the end of the Long Beach wharf: back around a beil buoy near Deadman's Island, and then down the last lap to the starting point. This afforded the crowd on the Terminal pier a splendid view of both the start and finish, the Long Beach spectators witnessing the passage around the stake boat.

The yachts were all freshly painted or groopned for the contest, and presented a pretty spectacle as they "jockeyed" for the start. They looked not unlike great butterfiles. There was no limitation to the sail, and some of the little craft carried a great spread. The skippers and assistants were attired in duck suits and gay colors.

PRETITY START.

tired in duck suits and gay colors.

PRETTI START.

A few minutes after 2 o'clock a blast from the whistle of the judges' launch gave the five-minute warning, and then the six facel little vessels were off for the ten-mile race. They came past the amateurs, racing their yachts purely for the fun of it, and the performance of each skipper yesterday did him credit.

Especially notable was the superb handling of the Osborn by Howard A. Dodge. This boat made the best time by six minutes, but goes back to second place by the time allowance to the little Myth. Dodge took some chances in holding the Osborn on a course close to the surf, but by doing so he saved considerable distance and got everybit of wind stirring.

Joe Fellows also did some crack sailing with the Myth, the baby of the first half of the way, rounding the Long Beach stakeboat a bad fifth. The little craft showed well going before the wind, however, on the back track, and by clever work Fellows brought her in second at the finish. Her time allowance of thirteen minutes makes her the winner. She is the most modern yacht of the lot.

Every one of the amateur skippers did well and the race was a delight to devotees of the sailing art, as well 'as to the uninitiated.

That yacht racing will be forevermore a popular and established sport in Southern California waters is an assured fact. And there is no reason why it should not be. Off our coast the natural conditions are better than those to be found by the Columbia and Shamrock in the Atlantic. It is popular as a recreation with men of means, and this class is now enlisted for yachting on a more extensive scale.

BIG APPLE CROP.

The apple crop of San Diego county this year is conservatively estimated as aggregating from 50,000 to 60,000 boxes of merchantable fruit. Practically all of it has been purchased by Simpson & Hack, commission merchants of Los Angeles, and if placed on the local market at all, must be by

TOO POPULAR.

'The jury in the case of the State vz. sam Schiller, one of the duck shooters arrested by Game Warden Pritchard, staid out several hours and was finally discharged by Justice Anderson at 11 o'clock last night, after it had become evident that it was impossible to reach an agreement. On the first bailot the vote stook six to six for conviction. Later the vote became ten for acquittal and two for conviction, and here it hung with no prospect of change. Mr. Pritchard is discouraged and admits that the culprits are too popular for jury conviction. He will, however, try the Schiller case over again. Schiller is a very popular young man who has lived here all his life and feels confident that no twelve men in the city will declare him guilty, no matter what the evidence.

W. H. NEISWENDER RETURNS FROM ALASKA MINES.

Enthusiastic Over Prospective Gold Production on Shores of Windham Bay-Immense Body of High-grade Ore That is Easy to Work.

W. H. Neiswender has returned from Windham Bay, Alaska, where he spent two months at the mines of the Windham Chief Gold Mining Com-pany in which he is heavily interested.

Windham Chief Gold Mining Company in which he is heavily interested. He brought with him a number of fine nuggets and some magnificent specimens of free-milling quartz obtained from the company's property.

Mr. Neiswender has a very encouraging report to make to the local stockholders of the Windham Chief Company, of whom there are a good many. "I not only believe, but I am satisfied, that we have one of the best mining propositions on the Pacific, Coast, and I challenge contradiction by any one who has ever been to Windham Bay, or who will take the trouble to go there to investigate," said Mr. Neiswender.

"When I left," he continued, "we had already enough ore on the dump to make all of the members of the company fairly well off, after it is milled, and we have as yet made but a mere scratch on the immense mountain of high-grade ore that simply awaits quarrying."

If he spends next winter in Alaska, as he most hinks he shall, he intends to lay in a fine collection of bear skins and pelts of other valuable fur-bearing animals.

ISLANDER DISASTER.

Mr. Neiswender brought home some interesting relios of the ill-fated steamer Islander, the wreck of which caused the loss of so many lives. He iss firmly of the conviction that the vessel would never have been wrecked if the officers of the ship had not been drunk. Even after she struck the rocks, the lives of all on board could have been saved, he thinks, if the officers and crew had possessed a particle of sober sense.

President Raymer of the Windham Chief Mining, Company, who went north with Mr. Neiswender two months ago, will return to Los Angeles within the next week or ten days. ISLANDER DISASTER.
